

1 Capturing All-Star Players

Being on the outside of the chain linked fence, makes it difficult for our parents to get great action shots during the game. That is where you come in!

Whether the player is hitting or fielding, we hope to highlight each player in every game so when the pictures are posted to social media, every parent has at least one picture to save and share with loved ones. Whether it is an action shot or they stop to smile for you, we appreciate whatever you can capture, and we welcome your creativity.

If there is a special event taking place, like an honorary first pitch, a staff member will make you aware before the game.

BEING A PHOTOGRAPHER

An MLP's Photographer's role is to capture the magic of our baseball games. Our heartwarming experience is hard to describe unless you witness it, so pictures are the next best thing! Your role not only captures moments our parents and volunteers cannot, it plays a crucial role in spreading awareness of our mission.

Read through for more important details about this engaging and important role!

2 Capturing Volunteers

Our mission greatly relies on volunteers, so capturing photos of these roles not only gives the volunteer a keepsake of working with us, it helps us advertise what each role looks like.

Examples: As you capture players, do your best to include their "buddy" as well. As they cross home, try to find a shot with the "umpire" calling the player safe.

Like parents, volunteers go through our albums to find pictures to save and share. Also, capturing large groups and their logos goes a long way in thanking them for volunteering and increases the chances they will return.

More pictures = more sharing = more awareness = more support!

3 End of Game

After most games, we will take a group picture of all players, buddies, coaches, and other volunteers from the game as a keepsake. Staff will make you aware of this before the end of the game. We usually have everyone stand on the pitcher's mound and face the flag pole.

Once the group picture is taken, you are all set. A drop folder will be shared with you before gameday, if not, touch base with a Staff Member. We understand the amount of time it can take to sort through your shots. As soon as you are able, follow their instructions and we will upload them to an album on our Facebook page.

Thank you for volunteering your time with us, and we hope to see you again!
